Candidates for Council Tell of Their Careers

In the coming city council election of April 9th, when Carmel will vote to fill three vacancies caused by expiration of term in office of Clara Kellogg, John Jordan and Herbert Heron, it will be a case of choosing candidates upon their personal fitness to govern the city rather than upon their stand on issues, for this election is singularly free from issues.

Five candidates are in the field, having submitted their nomination affidavits to City Clerk Saidee Van Brower in the following order: F. P. Howard, J. A. Burge, Bernard Rowntree, John H. Neikirk and James H. Thoburn, and all are running for the full term of four years.

None can be called pioneer Carmelites from the standpoint of old-timers who came in the pre-Forest Theater days, but nearly all have known of the town for many years and were identified with the state before coming here to live, so it is not a case of downright newcomers seeking office.

F. P. Howard, a retired business man, is a native of Oakland, California, and his family has long been identified with the west. While his only public office was a term as school trustee in San Mateo, he has been connected with politics throughout an active career in the Bay region, allying himself with progressive groups. He furthered the first municipal water district in Marin County, and to put it through had to have a special act of the legislature passed, it being signed by Governor Johnson. Later he served as bond custodian for the East Bay Municipal Utility District. His interest in affairs pertaining to water development has always been keen, and his service as secretary of the Spring Valley Water Company for fourteen years well qualified him for this work. Following this position, he entered general contracting, retiring from that a number of years ago and settling in Carmel in 1927. His knowledge of the town, however, goes back several decades.

J. A. Burge, nurseryman and landscape gardener, has never held public office. Born and raised in San Antonio, Texas, he came to this region thirteen years ago to work on Pebble Beach estates, and for the last eight years has been a resident of Carmel with a place of business on north San Carlos. As member of the Carmel Labor Bureau he assisted in relief of unemployment.

Bernard Rowntree is a native of England, coming to the United States as a youth and receiving training in electrical, mechanical and pneumatic engineering. He practiced these professions in Kansas City, Mo., Chicago and New York City, and came west in 1924, moving to Carmel in 1926 and entering the insurance business shortly afterward, which is his present profession. He has been a student of fire protection from the engineering standpoint, and locally has been active in many welfare commissions that include the Community Chest, Carmel Dollars and unemployment relief, and at the recent Sewer Bond election was made assessor of this sanitary district, thus gaining his first public office.

John Neikirk, 30 years old, youngest of the candidates, is general manager of a contracting firm. A native of Illinois, he received education in engineering at Stanford University and was with the P. G. & E., and the Southern California Edison Company before coming to Carmel to live in 1926. Active in boy scout work, he has been a Scoutmaster for three years and is a member of the local committee on scout affairs, as well as being a member of the Committee of Fifteen which did much in unemployment relief. His knowledge of Carmel goes back to high school days in Palo Alto.

James Thoburn is a native of San Jose, but was raised and educated in Palo Alto, graduating from Stanford in engineering. His professional experience has included driving tunnels and managing construction camps, generally in hydro-electric work, and this has been both in the east and on the Pacific Coast, part of the time as Superintendent of Construction for the West Coast Company. He came to Carmel Valley in 1926, and as a resident of Carmel has been in real estate business for the past five years. His knowledge of the region dates back twenty years. He has never held public office, although he has been identified with relief groups throughout the Peninsula.

Voters are reminded that Precincts 1 and 3 have become Consolidated Precinct A, comprising the area west of San Carlos and south of 8th Avenue, with polls at the Sunset School, while Precincts 2 and 4, now known as Consolidated Precinct B, will include all area inside the city limits other than Precinct A, with polls at the fire house.

SEA SERPENT? NO, NO! NOT FOR THIS VILLAGE

Carmel maintains its city-different reputation even in the matter of sea serpents. All over the world seacoast folk have lately been hollering about sea serpents before the eyes, with descriptions ranging from something like a gigantic eel to horse-like monsters whose look kills at three miles.

Carmel has not seen the sea serpent—any one of them. It has not seen even a ripple that a sea serpent might make, and certainly isn't going to get excited about sea lions, seals and cuttle fish, not while city elections are closer to home and pocketbook.

Let Santa Cruz, Loch Ness, Vancouver, La Jolla and way stations point with pride or view with alarm as they please, Carmel hasn't seen the sea serpent, even though news writers tried to name it Aimee; and Carmel is determined not to see the sea serpent, come out of the ocean what may.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE ELECTION FOR THIS DISTRICT TODAY

Voters in the Sunset School District today will decide whether Mrs. Louis Levinson or Mrs. Everett Smith is to fill the school board position left vacant by Clara Kellogg through expiration of her three year term. Both candidates have lived in Carmel for a period of years and have children in the school.

A heavy poll is expected, and voters are reminded that those living within the city limits but west of San Carlos Street will go to the fire house to ballot, while others in the district will vote at the school. The district comprises Carmel, Pebble Beach as far as the Country Club, Carmel Woods, La Loma Terrace, Hatton Fields, Carmel Point extending to the river and up Carmel Valley to the Frank Hatton Ranch.

At the same time will come up the question of whether H. D. Severance or M. L. Brenner, both of Monterey, shall be elected to membership on the High School District board. Severance has been in public service as a civil engineer for many years, and Brenner has been identified with the canning industry since his service in the war.

CORRECTION IN DRAWING OF PAINTINGS AT GALLERY

A correction is noted in the distribution of the Carmel Art Association paintings as drawn by lot last week at the Gallery. Instead of reading as published, it should have stated that Mrs. Comstock drew the Fitzgerald, and F. P. Howard drew the Gray.

Easter Services In the Various Carmel Churches

Observance of Easter will be the morning, and Church School made in Carmel by the several will have its Presentation Exercises and Flower Cross building at 9:45. At eleven the Easter Festival Eucharist will be held with inspiring Easter Music sung by a choir of boys and girls and a sermon by the Vicar on "Life After Death." A pageant depicting the sacred scenes connected with the Resurrection of Jesus will be presented by the Church School at seven in the evening.

Holy Week at the Old Mission began yesterday, and today will bring the Three Hours Agony beginning at noon, conducted by Revs. M. D. O'Connell, McDowell and Santry, with an augmented choir under leadership of Mrs. Lee Watson. At 7:30 this evening will be the Stations of the Cross, and Holy Saturday mornings will bring the blessings of five Paschal candles at the baptismal font and confessions morning, afternoon and evening.

Easter Sunday at the Mission will have solemn high mass at eight, with an especially prepared sermon by Rev. O'Connell. The body of Christ, which has rested in the side chapel for the first time in 150 years, will be returned to its position at the altar during this service.

At All Saints Church today, emphasis will be on the meaning and practical bearing of this season on present day life. Commemoration of the Three Hours Agony will be from noon on today, with twenty minute periods so that people may come and go during the singing of a hymn, although it is desirable that they should remain for the entire time if possible. Easter will bring Holy Communion at 7:30 in

At the Community Church the Good Friday services will be in conjunction with a Monterey Church and will be held over the hill. On Easter Sunday at eleven music will be featured, including a violin solo by Arthur Gunderson, "Adagio Religioso," by Vieuxtemps, accompanied by Muriel Doodside chapel for the first time in position at the altar during this service.

Business Section Imperiled By Ocean Avenue Fire

In a night blaze that threatened the entire business block on the south side of Ocean Avenue between Dolores and Lincoln, the Cinderella Shop, owned by Janet Prentiss, pioneer Carmelite, was extensively damaged last Tuesday from fire thought due to electrical apparatus in the back workroom.

Paul Dougherty, internationally known marine artist, and Dr. David Matzke discovered flames and turned in the alarm shortly before eleven o'clock. By the time Chief Bob Leidig and his men arrived with apparatus the whole interior of the rear room was afire, and when this was under control the space between the ceiling and the roof had become ignited, as well as the high fire wall between the shop and the adjoining Carmel Land Company offices. For the better part of an hour stubborn resistance was given by it, necessitating considerable use of fire axes to uncover its source.

Building and stock of apparel were covered by insurance. This is the first downtown fire of any size in several years, and brings up the fact that inadequate water supply exists in the business area. On good authority it is stated that in a major blaze requiring capacity pumping by the apparatus the water supply would fail after thirty minutes, regardless of the fact that the water company puts additional pressure in our mains by turning on two pumps at the reservoir when the alarm sounds. Leidig had five lines of hose on the Cinderella Shop fire and did not have to pour on the volume of water that a more general involvement would have demanded, so had no difficulty with his supply, although two of the hydrants developed valve trouble and had to be cleared before full flow could be had.

"With the four and six inch mains now in use we cannot pump over five hundred gallons a minute," he said, "and to be amply protected we should have ten inch mains that will allow us a thousand gallons a minute without danger of failure."

Top Bracket License Fee May Be Hundred Dollars

Detailed discussion of the proposed new business license ordinance, following the reading by Judge George Wood of his prepared form of one version, took the major portion of Wednesday evening at the council meeting. Through the efforts of Willard Whitney and City Attorney Campbell, in conjunction with Wood, the long-discussed sliding scale basis of license fee, with a top bracket of $100 was tentatively approved and the ordinance will have its first official reading before the Council next Wednesday night.

Points of contention were mainly over contractors and the several fees paid by them as against the single fee paid by most other business firms, as well as the amount to be paid by Monterey firms such as cleaners and dyers soliciting in Carmel, and a smoothing out of exact amounts will be had before the next meeting. Contractors are to meet with the council tomorrow afternoon at four to adjust their figures and the wording of specific clauses.

Among other matters taken up, the council approved the services of public accountant Howell Byrnes in auditing the city's books, and prepared an ordinance appointing B. W. Adams inspector of electricity and gas installation in Carmel. The insufficient supply of water in downtown fire mains was briefly taken up but no action resulted in view of the coming council election which will bring a new board into being with its own ideas on the matter.

Informal discussion on the bond issue of $50,000 for a city hall and fire house to be voted on jointly with the council balloting April 9th brought emphasis from city attorney Campbell on the fact that no specific site nor plan of a building could be offered until the people had approved the general idea, and that in the end it all would hinge on whether or not a government grant of 30% could be had from PWA sources. Considerable difference of opinion was evident as to whether or not the city park on Block 69 would be a site, and whether or not the fire house would be a part of the building or separate from it.

BANG! THERE GOES THE NEW POST OFFICE

A call for bids for a two year's lease on Carmel's Postoffice quarters, with an option of renewal for three additional years, made this week by the Postal Inspector for the district would seem to kill all hopes of a new Federal building here for a long time. Bids must be in the local postoffice by April 20, the lease to begin June 30, 1934.

ROBLES DEL RIO GOLF IN CHARGE OF WILSON

Philip Wilson, Sr., pioneer golf expert of this region, will be in charge of the Robles Del Rio course this year, and plans expensive improvements in the links. The course is known as one of the sportiest small courses on the coast, and several tournaments are planned for the summer vacation under Wilson's supervision.

PARKING AT BEACH IMPROVED BY CITY

Extensive improvements in parking facilities at the foot of Ocean

Avenue have been completed by Street Superintendent William Aske, and our beach visitors will find ample space for their cars without running the front wheels into the sand.

The avenue has been widened to 65 feet, and Del Mar has been increased to 40 feet for a distance of 200 feet south, the whole requiring 800 cubic yards of clay to be carried by city trucks after 1000 yards of sand had been moved to accommodate the new material.

FIRE DRILL GIVES CITY EVIDENCE OF PROTECTION

Thursday night drill by the fire department was based on the assumption that a downtown fire of major proportions involved the store rooms in back of Stella's Dry Goods Store and Ewig's Grocery. To combat such a situation, the fireman brought six lines of hose into play, two going directly into the conflagration, two over the roofs and the other two around in back to protect surrounding property.

Our low fire loss in Carmel is largely due to the vigilance of will go far toward keeping the Chief Bob Leidig and his volunteers low throughout the year. tears, and preparation of this sort

STABAT MATER USHERS IN CARMEL'S FIRST GREAT ANNUAL MUSIC FESTIVAL

by Hal Garrott

With last night's performance of Rossini's Stabat Mater by more than one hundred locally trained amateur musicians, Carmel stood upon the pinnacle of its musical history, a height hitherto undreamed of. Instead of contemplating the profound depths from which we have risen, our music lovers preferred to gaze upward to heights unscathed.

"Next year," announced Dene Denny, "Carmel will put on a Bach choral with 250 voices and a full symphony orchestra. Tonight is only the first celebration of an annual festival, destined to make our village as musically famous as Bethlehem, Pa. The outstanding Easter event on the Pacific coast will some day be the Carmel Music Festival." Dene Denny's predictions have a way of coming to pass, so we accept her words at face value.

The thrilling and colorful music by the composer of some 70 operas electrified the great audience in Sunset Auditorium. There was not a dull moment (though unavoidably a couple of hazardous ones) in Michel Penha's conducting. To keep one hundred amateurs together is an achievement to tax the resourcefulness of any leader. To inspire such performers to rise above routine and produce music that lives, that touches the heart, that thrills, is the work of a great conductor.

The elements out of which Penha built his truly colossal efforts were, first, the professional soloists, any one of whom would have made good at a Carmel Music Society concert. Marie Wallman, high soprano, possessing a voice as fresh and pure as it is powerful, proved a favorite.

Calista Rogers, second soprano, remembered for her recital here some years ago, won our gratitude some years ago, won our gratitude by topping a fortissimo chorus and orchestra with a vocal power and Basso Henri Schefoff, popular in San Francisco for his "Falstaff," reveals a voice that dominates, as well as charms with lyric sustained tones. The English tenor G. Marston Haddock is a singer of rare refinement, whom it is a pleasure to hear because of his discrimination and finish.

Fenton Foster's chorus of 75 has blossomed into a first rate concert organization. Under Foster's leadership the tone has gained in purity and color. These singers are now ready to tackle the great works of Bach and Beethoven.

The two year old Monterey Peninsula Orchestra shows the results of Michel Penha's intensive training. Augmented to forty last night, the ensemble sounded full and balanced. The wind choirs spoke in no uncertain accents against a smooth flowing string section. Many admirable bits by individual players were discernable. The "Parsifal" selection was poetically interpreted.

Judging from the vociferous enthusiasm of the audience, those who failed to attend "the greatest concert in Carmel's history" will spend much time regretting it. Fortunately for them Opportunity still knocks. Stabat Mater with its brilliant cast of one hundred and twenty-five will be repeated tonight in the Pacific Grove High School Auditorium.

COMMUNITY PLAYERS DO MOLNAR NEXT WEEK END

by Winsor Josselyn

Ferenc Molnar, the modern master of situation comedy, must have had Peggy Converse in mind when he wrote his new play, "The Good Fairy," to be produced by the Carmel Community Players at the Community Playhouse next week end, April 5, 6, and 7th, and created the character of Lu, that deliberately unstable young woman who takes her life and her men as she finds them.

In casting the play, director Helen Ware, who is a Carmelite in good standing when not down in Hollywood doing a picture, insisted that Peggy Converse was the one person to keystone the show, and around her were grouped Chester Shephard, Eugene Watson, Marjorie Collis, Peter Burk, and James Roache-Kelly, Frederick Burt, who is as well known on Broadway as we are on Ocean Avenue, has finally consented to do the theatre manager with his provocative interlude speech before the curtain to explain the epilogue, a feature of the play that started a war among New York critics when Helen Hayes was starred in the first production.

Blonde little Lu abandons an ushering job in a movie house when she meets millionaire Konrad, and then, needing a husband to give reality to her fictitious life story, she picks Dr. Sporum out of a telephone directory at random and in breathless huskiness insists on showering him with good luck. As in the old comedy days in Hollywood, it may well be said that from then on interesting complications ensue.

Tickets are on sale at Staniford's Drug Store, and it is suggested to peninsula audiences that if good seats are wanted for this opening of the Spring theatrical season, reservations be made early.

IS THAT SO?

By Winsor Josselyn

It doesn't do to make such statements around Paula. When somebody told of somebody who had spent the last thirty years going between the Philippines and China, she asked, "How come he didn't drown?"

Once some Carmelites were on the way to Hollywood, and while crossing the God-forsaken region of Lost Hills, which is only worth millions to oil operators, they spotted a smallish creature trotting across the landscape. Dog, sheep or coyote?

"Whatever it is," remarked one of the tourists, "all that we need do is catch it and put it in a museum."

"Fine!" came the reply. "And now all that we need is a museum."

This column denies all credit for naming the leading sewer opponents Privy Counsellors. Let credit fall where it is due, and be it known that the term was coined by the opponents themselves as a sort of secret password during the late lamented election.

It must please Chicago to learn that the Grecian Mr. Insull has declared he'd rather commit suicide than return to its city limits. There's something radically wrong with a city that affects its citizens that way, and Los Angeles never grew to its present proportions from a slogan of that sort on the lips of Ohioans.

A true host knows just how to make the departing guests go home in the best of humor.

"I've had the most marvelous time!" cried a lady as she went out the door.

"You bet you have," said the beaming host. "You haven't stopped talking all afternoon."

We don't put our paper on the back, but you mustn't overlook the fact that only the New York Times and the Pine Cone ran interviews with the Rt. Hon. Andrew Jameson, of Dublin, Ireland, during his recent tours of the States. A couple of alert journals, these two.

Speaking of how little quirks of fate upset the best laid plans, there comes to mind the sad story of the young man who lived with relatives, and the relatives were strict about the way he took a glass of tonic now and then. After one particularly distressing argument on the subject, the law was laid down that only one glassful a day would be allowed under that roof.

The young man gave the better part of a week to shopping for the biggest glass the region offered, and finally brought home something that might have been called a transparent umbrella stand if the clerk hadn't solemnly assured him it was really a beverage tumbler. And what happened?

Before it was filled once, the buyer was aghast upon coming home late that hot day to find the law-giving housekeeper had it on the front room table overflowing with cut flowers.

"Is your husband a good lawn cutter?"

"I'll say he isn't. Why after he gets through you could still lose a police dog in the front yard."

RANGER URGES CAUTION AGAINST FIRE MENACE

Because of the relatively small amount of snow in the higher hills this winter, Ranger Frank A.

Moore, of Carmel, who is in charge of northern Monterey County, looks for a particularly bad forest fire menace during the Summer and Fall, and would like to remind prospective campers early and often to use caution against it.

"Prevention of fires is largely a matter of habit in extinguishing camp fires, wetting them down and clearing combustible material away for several feet around, as well as making sure that all burning tobacco is entirely dead before thrown away.

"While we will have organized fire fighting crews in greater force than in many years through services of the federal camps, we need the utmost cooperation from sportsmen and hikers, and we also need their reports on any smoke seen by them as they go along the trail so that we may get at the source of it before it can spread."

DAVE MARQUIS SENTENCED TO TERM IN COUNTY JAIL

Pleading guilty to a charge of driving a car while under influence of liquor, Dave Marquis, long a resident of Carmel, was sentenced on Tuesday morning to 90 days in the county jail. The charge grew out of a collision between a truck driven by Marquis and the automobile of William P. Silva, well known Carmel artist, at 13th and San Carlos Street on Monday afternoon, and the hearing was held under Judge George Wood in the city court.

WELL---

What Of It? by Elizabeth McClung White

Carmel extraordinary. Not only tried for a bridge of sighs, but for one of smells—in the proposed sewer-trestle across our lovely river.

Let's try it again, underground route this time.

Somebody ought to tell Jo Mora there's a depression. Painting fourteen hours a day.

George Sterling's early poetry, under direction of Ambrose Bierce, to appear soon in Mercury. Helen Bierce, author.

They Knew What They Wanted, said Carmel players. Reminds us of clay-eaters of North Carolina.

Max Panteleiff is leading baritone in the New York Russian Grand Opera. Got his American start in Carmel.

Sunset School has one of Dr. Sansum's dieticians. Fat men, don't stampede!

Among the things we should know: that our own Dr. Margaret Levick blew back the fog of ignorance from the startled mind of India, and established the first tuberculosis clinic and hospital that country; that Major Ralph Coote, Irish, played round with the Seventeenth Lancers during our little dispute with Germany, is among those present; that Colonel Seely-Smith, English, another real warrior, has operated upon a lot of Carmel's best in trees; that practically every tree in Carmel shelters one man or woman who has made a brilliant record out in the world. Outside where they notice such things.

There's a long, long trail, from places to Carmel. But they all come. Even the composer of that song.

were 998 issued and there have been 905 cancelled and no effort has been spared to find the remaining 93 which apparently are being cherished as souvenirs in some far country.

On February first when I broadcasted an appeal for the final roundup of Carmel Dollars, there had been 644 redeemed and 251 have been redeemed since that date.

Thirteen of Carmel's public spirited citizens contributed $80.00 and forty-seven merchants came across with $73.83, making a total of $153.83, of which $140.88 has been spent for Relief Stamps to cancel 251 Carmel Dollars.

The balance of the contributions amounting to $12.95, I have turned over to the Carmel Red Cross for their Special Employment Fund.

Anyone having Carmel Dollars can redeem them at either bank by purchasing enough Relief Stamps to fill all the empty spaces on the back. Thank you and goodbye.

A. B. Chinn, Ira Taylor, Eugene non Wills, Harlan Wilder, Joe Roehling, Ernest Perkins, and John DeAmaral, Hal Stone, Lytton Neikirk. Outsiders were Skipper Hitchcock, George Cook, Tom Har-Stanley Greeb, Leonard Lenger, bolt, Clifford LeNeve, Dave Mar-Pete Nielsen, Jimmy Costello, and quis, John Logan, Sam Coblentz, Shirley Freeman. Among the boys Maurice Grimshaw, Leroy Bowen, who indicated they would join were Kent Clark, Bill Nye and Nels Ed-Paul Taylor, John Sheridan, Ver-quist.

Hectic Days Sleepless Nights

IF YOU are nervous today, you probably will not sleep well tonight. If you don't sleep well tonight, you will probably be nervous tomorrow.

Don't allow yourself to become nervous. Take Dr. Miles Nervine. It will relax your tense nerves and let you get a good night's sleep.

Irritability, Restlessness, Sleeplessness, often lead to Nervous Headache, Nervous Indigestion, Hysteria—sometimes to a nervous breakdown and organic trouble.

Some of the people, whose letters are printed below, were as nervous as you are—possibly more so—yet they have found relief.

Three years ago I was so nervous I could not bear to go out in company and could not sleep nights. A friend recommended Dr. Miles Nervine. I now enjoy myself thoroughly and sleep every night. Miss Juliette Currier, New Market, N. H.

I have used Dr. Miles Nervine in liquid form and find it the best medicine for the nerves I have ever used. Christine Lanier, Middleton, Tennessee

Whenever I have over-indulged and feel restless I take one or two Nervine Tablets just before I retire. In the morning when I awake I feel like a new person and can go about my work as usual. Dr. Miles Nervine Tablets quiet your nerves, brace you up and are the simplest, most convenient tablets to take I have ever found. Miss Grace Redmann, St. James, Minn.

Before using your Nervine I was very nervous and irritable. Since I have started to take it I feel so much better that my family notice the difference. I still take it from time to time and the good result is wonderful. J. H. Redding, 1027 18th Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

CARMEL SEA SCOUT TROOP IS LAUNCHED

The first meeting of the Carmel Sea Scouts was held last week at the Junipero Club on 8th and Dolores with more than thirty prospective members and older men in attendance. Herman Crossman, in charge of the evening, pointed out the basic usefulness of Sea Scouting because of our proximity to the ocean and its commerce, and the valuable preparation in seamanship given to scout members.

Ranald Cockburn, newly appointed first mate of the Ship, expressed his love for the sea and its place in every person's life, while Skipper Stanley Greeb, of the Monterey Ship, expressed desire to cooperate with the Carmel group. Rev. George Petrie, District Personal Committeeman, outlined the possibilities attending Ship organization, and details of activities connected with it, and Commanded Peterson, retired naval officer, was announced as Skipper of the Carmel Ship and told briefly of his sea experiences as well as inviting questions on sea life in general, following which refreshments were served.

Tonight at the Sunset School will be the first regular meeting, at 7:30, and all boys over fifteen who are interested in joining can receive information about membership at that time, or by calling at the Pine Cone office opposite the postoffice and interviewing Ranald Cockburn during the day.

The Carmel Scout Troop, committee as announced by Crossman consisted of the following men: Herman Crossman, chairman; Hurd Comstock, treasurer; Rev. Melvin Dorsett, personnel; Louis Levinson, finance; and Everett Smith, recreation.

Local residents at the meeting last week were Don Staniford, Rev.

"Cecil" of the Radio Comes to Carmel

by Leslie King

Cecil, of "Cecil and Sally" radio fame, has come to Carmel to live. He dashed into our village a fortnight ago in a much used but authoritative Pierce roadster, accompanied by two interested police-dogs in the rumble-seat and a grinning negro-mammy beside him. He drew up in front of a real estate office, got a key, took the first house he looked at and in less than an hour had established a home and says he has come to stay. His reasons are reasonable: he said he has always loved Carmel and he must now be where it is quiet and the climate mild in order to help him recover from a nervous breakdown and at the same time continue his radio work.

John Patrick, alias "Cecil," is in private life exactly the lovable, upright, intensely human sort of chap his millions of radio friends presume him to be as they listen daily over half the world to his amusing adventures with the irrepressible, lipping and giggling "Sally." He is boyish, looks and acts younger than his twenty-seven years, is tall and slight, has straight, strong features, wide blue eyes that are frank and unafraid and that constantly mirror the alertness of his mind and sincerity of his smile. He likes to wear white, and evidently the doting mammy, Esther, with an ever watchful eye on his food and raiment, sees to it that soft sport shirts and trousers are always fresh and spotless. He is never still, but suits actions to words with unlimited energy—springing up with athletic ease from the couch where he is supposed to be resting to fetch a picture of "Sally," his scrap book, a manuscript, and with each move unconsciously considering the two dogs, Nero and Lasca, that stay as close to him as they can get.

Nero (named because of the "Nero" in the radio series, and, incidentally, he is one of the most bashful dogs that ever lived), "Cecil" explained, "didn't get first prize, but he got second at the dog show" and was given to him by Bill Hart. Then he went on to tell with characteristic loyalty of the friendship between himself and the best-loved "two-gun" cowboy of screen-dom, and the hospitality he had enjoyed at Hart's splendid New-hall ranch.

But "Cecil" talked most about his work. He is for it, mind and body—he must be, to achieve what he has. (although he said he would rather be a playwright.) He not only takes the part of "Cecil" as you hear him six days in the week over the radio, but he writes all their episodes and has been doing this for six years. He has written over 3000 episodes, which is a record of some kind, as no one else in the history of radio has written and presented as many broadcasts.

Heed, Carmel writers, what PRACTICE will do: The first episode John Patrick wrote took him eight hours. He now writes one in forty-five minutes, and he has written as many as fifteen in one day.

When asked how he got his ideas he answered: "I have to write nine episodes before tomorrow night and I have the idea for just one of them. I sit down and try to type as fast as the ideas come—my fingers have to go pretty fast—if I have to stop it breaks my train of thought. Here's one," he sprang up, straddling Nero, who had crept up on the couch beside him, and brought a page literally covered with typed letters. "I don't suppose you can read it." I couldn't. The words were all run together. He hadn't taken time to space between them. "The office re-types for me—they're used to it," he said.

These episodes have rarely been rehearsed more than once before being read (all broadcasts are read) to the "mike," or rather, for the past year, to the electric recording machine.

Electric recording is the answer to how "Cecil" can make his home in Carmel and still continue to tell young—and old—Americans how he and "Sally" are, or aren't, getting along. It also enlarges their circle of friends, as these records are heard daily in Australia, New Zealand, Hawaiian and Philippine Islands and South Africa. At intervals he goes to San Francisco, where, by the way, he was born and reared, and makes a number of records—enough to last until the next trip. The greatest number of episodes they have recorded at one time was 82. This was to furnish a supply during their personal appearance tour through the middle-west and eastern states.

When asked how he got started in Radio, Mr. Patrick replied promptly and with a chuckle, "Believe it or not, by singing! I was nineteen, just out of high-school, and it was at the Presidio at a party that somebody said I had a voice that ought to go over the 'mike.' The next day I went down and edged around to see what a 'mike' looked like—I'd never seen one. I got a chance to sing—and I got a contract. . . . Don't know how I ever got by, because I was certainly pretty terrible." He said he started writing by jotting down "gags" as they occurred to him, and one led to another and just grew and grew.

Now, a word about "Sally," who in private life is Miss Helen Troy. We saw a fine photograph of her and she is NOT big and fat, middle-aged and doudy, as we had been told she was. She is young and sweetly girlish, a petite blonde with a cheery smile and dainty pose—just the kind of a girl one naturally wants "Sally" to be. She is indeed just the kind "Cecil" wants her to be for he is enthusiastic in praise of her as friend, associate and trouper. He said a great cry of protest filled fan mail when "Cecil and Sally" got married: "Let them go on being sweethearts," the fans insisted. But that isn't life, and he aims to have them keeping step as life goes on.

About that time Esther gently announced that dinner was ready and we left, thinking that if tender care, peace and harmony in a sunny hillside home among the pines, clean sea air, plus the congenial companionship and one-man-adoration of two fine specimens of "man's best-friend" were conducive to relaxing taut nerves and regaining health, then John Patrick will mighty soon be well and strong.

Mr. Jack Welsh of Sacramento was in town last week end.

NECESSITY—OR EXTRAVAGANCE?

It would seem by the talk on the streets that the proposal of a bond issue of $50,000 to erect a city hall for Carmel is already as good as defeated. The surprising showing against sewer bonds March 12, cast its shadow over the city hall project, and lowered the morale of the supporters of that project very materially. Then the grave doubt of obtaining any federal assistance from P. W. A. funds has had its effect.

The election is but ten days off—April 9—with three councilmen to elect from a field of five candidates, and the fate of the city hall to be decided as the same time and place. There is going to be some heavy campaigning in the interval, and there is little doubt that a large vote will be cast. A heavy ballot is usually adverse to a bond issue.

Another nick was indented in the city hall project when the discovery was made that the sand dune bonds will not be cleared away as soon as expected, but the last $1000 will have another year to run. The argument made by the proponents of the project that there would be little or no addition to the tax rate in Carmel, as the sand dune bonds could be applied to the interest charges and upkeep of the city hall, has lost some of its potency.

There is no immediate need of a new city hall, says the man on the street, and general conditions do not warrant any but the most pressing necessary outlays of city funds. The delinquent tax list enters continually into the controversy, with its unequalled length as an argument against any extravagance now.

Carmel has never grown enthusiastic over building a city hall, even when times were at the flush, and all business was bustling. Will it change its attitude now?

WANTED: WORKERS

Carmel should welcome the Serra Pageant as set for the four days of August 25, 26, 27 and 28 next, and give it such united and enthusiastic support as will make it the greatest celebration of all California's Serra Year. It holds big hopes for Carmel for this and future years.

George Marion, veteran actor and producer, has prepared a fine script, with each of its four acts, or episodes, centering at Carmel Mission, almost exactly in the place where more than a century and a half ago, the Padre Presidente and his people went through the original ceremonies. Historical in its character, this pageant has dramatic qualities of real force, and under direction of its famous author, will stir the blood of everyone who sees and hears it. With actors of the kind that Marion can select and get, professionals and the best amateurs, it should prove a noteworthy production.

What is needed now is the substantial support of Carmel's people, one and all. To the merchants and business men, the Serra Year

WIND AND FLAME

Like the quick words
Of a young desire,
Naked swords
Have struck fire
On the cool hills;
In the stricken groves
The stroke that kills
Sets free in droves
The dusky, the burning
Leaves of aspen, leaves of willow,
Leaping and turning
In a golden billow,
On a windy tide,
Where beauty died
But a grey drift,
A false smoke,
And the ghost of doubt
That a voice spoke,
That a flame went out.

—Winifred Gray Stewart

TO A HOUSED PALM TREE

I would you might enjoy the blessed gifts
So graciously designed for such as you—
The ample rain-fed soil; the light that sifts
From endless reaches of the beckoning blue.
Instead, your crowning emerald leaves are sent
Against the ceiling of a painted room;
Your lovely slender stem is sadly bent.
I cannot but resent such needless doom.

Yet I have seen, within a narrow sphere,
A splendid human spirit grope and strain
For growth, denied the scope it counted dear;
Have noted, too, the brow grown taut with pain.
Oh, surely, man and tree are more than worth
The right to prove the heritage of birth.

—Fan C. Smith

CREDO

How can men doubt
That love shall last
Or beauty still its splendid flow—
That age reveals but loveliness
And winter but a silver snow?

How can men doubt
That love shall last
Or faith slip silently away—
That years shall speak but tenderness
And sunset but the end of day?

How can men doubt
That love shall be
Their singing flame until they go—
That death shall be but swifter fire
With love to linger in its glow?

—Charles Beardsley

celebration means bringing twenty thousand or more people, from all over the United States, to Carmel for the Pageant. Those people will spend money in the stores and shops. Some of them will surely remain in Carmel.

To the residents and art-loving people of Carmel, the interest is in a production worthy of all the traditions of the village, which will add to the name of Carmel for giving original and ingenious affairs in the arts. The Serra Pageant will undoubtedly be our noblest effort in out-door dramatics, with a local author, local director and mostly local actors.

Don Staniford is General Manager, with an enormous burden thrust upon his shoulders. Go to him with your generous offer of support; send him your name as a worker or committeeman; get into harness, and help put across the greatest dramatic success in Carmel's history, and the best aid possible to Carmel's commercial prosperity.

VOTE TODAY FOR THE SCHOOL

Today the electorate of the Sunset School district is attending to the business of selecting a third member of the board of trustees. Were this a question merely of the character and personality of the candidates, there would be little choice between the two able women who are running for the office. Both are fine and competent women; either would fill the office with rare ability.

But there is an issue in this election that is not so simple of determination, and it bears upon the future of Carmel. Shall Sunset School continue to improve in its educational standards as it has certainly built during the past eight years, or shall there be doubt and hesitancy as to its efficiency? Today it is one of the finest schools in the state. It has not been so in the past.

A long memory is not needed to recall the days when Sunset School was far from satisfying the educational needs of the district; when parents sent their children to private schools, to neighboring schools over the hill, or moved away from Carmel to cities that did give the young a proper education. Such a school was not good for Carmel. Anything less than the standards maintained by the present day Sunset School should never again be permitted in Carmel.

Mrs. Louis Levinson will, if elected today, continue the school upon this basis. She will, moreover, try to better it continually during her service for the district. Many of those active in the support of Mrs. Levinson's opponent, Mrs. Esther R. Smith, are known to oppose the present management as too extravagant, too modern, and would make radical changes there. It is this element of Mrs. Smith's support that we fear, not Mrs. Smith herself.

We ask our friends, and the friends of Carmel to turn out in force today and by their ballots stamped for Mrs. Louis Levinson, continue Sunset School as a potent force for the good of Carmel.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

Captain John Norton, co-author of "Flying With Lawrence In War-Crazed Arabia," which appeared recently in Liberty magazine, was a visitor to Carmel during the western conference of Canada Life Assurance officials at Pine Inn of late. Tall and bespectacled, this young Englishman told of working with the Arabs in the campaign that united innumerable desert factions for the first time in centuries.

"Most of the time we didn't even know where our army was, as the thirty thousand under arms would disappear in the desert hunting Turks and have to be located by half a day's search. The orders came from our Cairo headquarters and were a week old by the time we got them, so when the army put them into action they were scarcely news.

"Of course you've heard of how Lawrence delighted his Arabs by blowing up Turk railroad trains and letting them help, and by dynamiting tracks and bridges in between times. The man's tact and deep understanding of Arabian nature were directly responsible for the success of the whole campaign, and don't think that he was in charge only nominally, for he was the boss in actual fact."

Norton was attached to General Allenby's staff in Palestine after seeing the war on the European front from its start. He told of being in one drive in France when dozens of squadrons of new fighting planes were loosed on the Germans and drove nearly a hundred machines down the first day. In preparation for it, however, only older planes were used and the fatalities were very high when the German fighters with their superior craft met them.

"Odd thing about one bombing raid we carried out against the Turks down in Palestine. Just the other day I got a letter from a German living in Los Angeles, telling me that he had read my story and that he was the man who had been in command of the men I attacked, and that he was now down and out and thought that a talk with me about war days might serve to build up his morale again. My offices are in Los Angeles, and when I go back I'll look him up."

Norton has visited Carmel before, and intends returning here on vacation later in the year.

Helen Ware, nationally known stage and screen character actress, and in private life Mrs. Frederic Burt, has returned from Hollywood where she took the part of Joan Crawford's mother in a recent picture.

"I've been an Irish mother slaving over a hot stove for a whole week at a time," stated Miss Ware, "but when I go back there for the final sequences I understand that the family has fallen into a lot of money and I get dressed up and taken to Europe."

She will direct the next Carmel Community Players' production, "The Good Fairy," and no Carmelites has had better stage experience suitable to bring out the delicate comedy of Ferenc Molnar's new play than this capable actress.

Robert Welles Ritchie, international newspaperman who has been a Carmelite for many years and is now in Berkeley with the Federal Land Bank as Public Relations executive, was in Heywood Broun's syndicated column "It Seems to Me" in a recent San Francisco edition.

"For more than 20 years," writes Broun, while yarning on the topic of gambling, "I have recalled a great newspaper story written by Bob Ritchie at the time of the fight between Jeffries and Jack Johnson, in Reno, Nevada.

"Mr. Ritchie was less concerned with the gladiators than with the background of the place in which the bout occurred, and he told of a Chinese who entered the chief gambling place of the town with his year's savings all in gold. Ah Fong, who was a laundryman, set down his entire capital upon No. 11. The wheel whirled around and around and up popped 36. Ah Fong rose from his chair, smiled pleasantly upon the assembled company, and went back to his shop to work another year."

Ritchie is an outstanding news writer known throughout the country and in Europe, as well as being a novelist and short story author, and whenever a war comes along he manages to find time for a little eye-witness work so that the home guard may keep informed.

A distinction too few Carmelites recall is that he was the first official umpire of the Abalone League when the handful of ardent used to gather in the days of leisure twelve years ago down Carmel Point. There are many surviving players of that first crew, but there is only one surviving umpire and Ritchie insists that it should rate along with his other war campaigns.

Mr. Jo Mora, Jr., has returned from a trip to San Francisco.

Among notables present were: Fred Boeken, Grand Master, Frank MacBeth, Grand Secretary, James Harris Grand Treasurer, C. R. Taylor Grand Warden, I. C. Jameson, Grand Marshall, G. A. Good, Past Grand Patriarch, and R. W. Giles, District Deputy Grand Master.

THE VILLAGE NEWS-REEL

Hobert Jacobs, New York artist and public school art director and instructor has been to Carmel accompanied by Harold Gabrielson of Palo Alto an art pupil of his. Mr. Jacob's long life has been one of service to youth. His art class was of boys brought in off the streets of New York who were rough and unappreciative at first but who quickly learned the first lesson.

Having prepared by his studies abroad to be a sculptor and having made a name with such sculpture as "The Laughing Boy" he was forced because of frail health to give up work in the damp studio necessary for work in clay. When he finally turned his energies to teaching, New York gained a great worker in human clay. It has been Mr. Jacob's keenest pleasure to give opportunity to boys who have had none, and twenty men today thank him because through his help they are doctors or lawyers or teachers or artists instead, of being uneducated and wasting their talents. He has been sketching and painting in the Carmel Valley and down the coast with the enthusiasm of youth, which he has despite his great age.

Mrs. George Blackman's son-in-law, David O'Neil with his daughter Barbara arrived here on Wednesday following a motor trip in Old Mexico. They went to Mexico from New York, taking their car on the boat, motored through Mexico and took a boat to San Francisco and so to Carmel where they will stop awhile, guests of Mrs. Blackman.

Among the guests at Peter Pan Lodge are Mrs. Esther Carr Thatcher, Miss Alice Case, and Mrs. Mery Madison of San Francisco, Mr. Samuel B. Bowen of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hayes, Mrs. Sigmund Stern, Mrs. Lawrence Straus, and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Krick of San Francisco.

Bret Weston drove up from Santa Barbara yesterday. Returning from Los Angeles with him was his father Edward Weston who is official photographer for Public Works of Art Project in the southern part of the state. Bret Weston, after a few days stay here will return to his photographic work in Santa Barbara.

A social success was the Southern plantation supper at the Community Church last Thursday. Seventy-five people were served delicious home cooked food and were entertained by the Misses Helen and Harriett Pierce who sang negro spirituals, F. R. Zaner of Monterey, radio singer who sang old southern tunes, Eileen MacKenzie, Muriel McPhillips and Gladys McKenzie, child entertainers who danced and tumbled, Miss Fannie Reeves who told fortunes and Mrs. Ed Warner and Mrs. Mary Chapin who gave a blackface skit.

The supper was given by Group one of the Auxiliary with Mrs. Warner in charge of the dinner and entertainment. She was assisted by Mrs. Jessie Askew, Mrs. Clara Beller, Mrs. John McKay, Miss Wills, Alice Askew, Mrs. Peggy Logan, Miss Eva Adcock, Mrs. Ivan Kelsey, Mrs. Natalie Warrington and others.

Stopping off on their way to and from Los Angeles to visit Mrs. Pomeroy are her niece Miss Kathleen Gannon and Miss Peggy Dibble, Junior Leaguers of San Francisco.

Mrs. W. R. L. Campbell, her daughter Mrs. Rochelle Blair and two children Billy and Ann are here from Berkeley in a cottage for two weeks.

Mrs. Angelita Sherer of the Womans Athletic Club of San Francisco has taken the Schuyler house for two weeks. With her are Mrs.

Thomas Brennan and daughter Ann.

Mrs. Cyril Cornwallis-Stevenson spent last week end in San Francisco with Mr. Stevenson who is in business there. Mrs. Stevenson and their two children are here for the school term with Mrs. J. N. Pomeroy.

Mrs. Cyril Cornwallis-Stevenson and Mrs. John Norton Pomeroy honored the latter's sister Mrs. Walter Scott Gannon of San Francisco at tea on Monday in Mrs. Pomeroy's home on Torres Street. Present were Mesdames: Russell Goodnow, Girard, Neil Bosworth, Mabel Turner, Louis Levinson, Betty Carr, James Cockburn, Randal Cockburn, David Matzke, Herbert Cerwin, James Wilson, Arthur Shand, Lee Gottfried, George Marion, Ernest Terry, Isabel Phillips, Ruth Scott Flynn. The Misses: Abby Lou Bosworth, Helen Hunt, Dorothy Girard, Mrs. Kern of Chicago, Mrs. Turner of Kansas City and Miss Camilla Daniels.

W. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Randal Cockburn, Mrs. Vera Koch, Dick Sears, Donald Lyons, Arne Hallé, Dr. Florence Belknap, Mrs. Lillian Purdy, and Patricia and Cynthia Lee.

Mrs. C. E. Hathaway honored Miss Ruth Thurman at a farewell tea at her home, San Antonio and Eighth last Monday, at which gathered many friends of Miss Thurman who is going to Berkeley to live.

Mr. H. W. Turner has been visiting in San Francisco for several days.

Peter Clayton Hatton is the name of the new son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hatton of Carmel Valley. The baby was born in El Adobe Hospital March 20, the third child in the Hatton home.

They are well acquainted locally, and many gatherings featured their stay. Among their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Al Sparks, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin G. Murphy and several peace officers.

Mrs. Clay Otto's brother Eric Johnson and his wife Vivian Amet Johnson of Los Gatos were here on Monday for a short visit at the Otto home in Carmel Woods. Eric Johnson is a newspaper man with the San Jose Mercury Herald and Mrs. Johnson is a dancer and well known for her direction or dancing in Los Gatos Pageants and Saratoga Flower Festivals.

Here from Germany after traveling the seven seas is Wilhelm H. R. Meyer-Kuster, known as Nibs Kuster, who graduated from Heidelberg University and took an M. S. from Darmstadt Technical Institute, who took motorless soaring flights at Wasserkuppe in the Roehn Mountains and helped to build better gliders. He was a member of the academic aviation group in Barmstadt. Somewhere in his travels Kuster acquired a picturesque saber scar across his forehead. He says that his idea of a perfect life would be to live in Carmel, get up before sunrise and go to bed after watching the sun set from the beach.

VELIE CLINIC IS SOON TO BE GENERAL HOSPITAL

Advancing the plan to increase the facilities of the Grace Deere Velie Metabolic Clinic until it will serve the peninsula as a general hospital giving service to patients at cost, Joseph Schoeninger, well known Carmelite and president of the campaign committee to raise funds for the purpose, and W. W. Powell, chairman of the Clinic Board of Trustees met here last week end.

Powell emphasized the fact that his group stands ready to turn control of buildings and equipment over to sponsors of the new Peninsula Community Hospital, as it will be known, when sufficient funds have been realized to assure equipping and operating the hospital in a substantial manner.

Announcement was made by Schoeninger that a partial list of appointments of members of the central subscription board and Initial Pledge Committee would include Mesdames Paul Dougherty, McKim Hollins, Henry D. Phelps, Vera Peck Millis, and Robert Stanton, and Miss Helen Heavey, as well as Messrs. Eugene Watson, A. W. Wheldon, Carl P. Burrows and S. A. Trevvett. This volunteer group will be the nucleus of the organization that will contact donors during April.

"No concerted effort has yet been made to secure subscriptions for this worthy cause," said Schoeninger, "We are seeking a group of loyal men and women who have a real desire to save this magnificent institution for community hospitalization purposes."

SAILBOAT IN BAY IS WORK OF NEIL AND SAM

Neil Weston, 17, and Sam Coblentz, 16, did the "Give a man a boat he can sail" one better; they built a sail boat, one that will go lickety-split when there is a breeze and not so fast when the wind doesn't blow, propelled by oars.

Last Saturday, with a crowd of holiday visitors looking on, Neil and Sam launched the boat, a seventeen foot flat-bottom center-board sailing skiff with a sloop rig, from the Carmel beach and sailed beautifully out to Pebble Beach and to Point Lobos.

This is the fourth boat they have built in the last four years. First a skiff which Neil said some one broke up for fire wood down by the river then two canvas canoes, one of which didn't work. They have spent all of their spare time out of W. Wheldon, Carl P. Burrows and S. A. Trevvett. This volunteer group will be the nucleus of the organization that will contact donors during April.

Henrietta Shore, the artist who is a friend of Neil's father, Edward Weston, has promised to paint the insignia, a terrible sea hag, on the sail.

Building of the boat which began a year ago Christmas took place in the Coblentz back yard and garage and in a neighbor's garage. Perfect as is this new boat, it is only one of the boats which the two boys plan to build. They plan next to make one with a motor and perhaps one in which they can sail around the world. That, they say, will be after they finish school.

Occasionally one who makes a start in Carmel dramatics goes on with the work in a professional way. According to Bobby Smith, Patricia Havens Monteagle has signed a contract with H. Curran to play one of the three feminine roles in "She Loves Me Not," to open April 23 at the Belasco Theatre in Los Angeles for a two weeks run, from there to the Curran Theatre in San Francisco and then on the road. Miss Monteagle will be remembered here for her work in "Hay Fever."

From the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco we received word that Mrs. Charles P. Watson of Carmel was stopping there.
